The funeral of the late Captain William Larkins took place at Oregon City on Wednesday afternoon, and was largely attended. The services which were held at the Methodist Church, and conducted by Rev. Mr. Blackwell of the church, assisted by Rev. A. E. Bernays, of the Portland Missions to Seamen, were very impressive. When the services were concluded the casket was opened that his friends might have a last view of the features of the deceased. It was noted how lifelike the corpse appeared, even to the familiar smile. The cortege then moved from the church to the cemetery followed by the many friends who had assembled. Captain Pope, who acted as representative of the Masters' & Pilots' Association, Capt. George Pease, the first steamboat captain of harbor No. 23, Captains Wm. Pratt and John Kelly, old time Willamette captains and two gentlemen of Oregon City acted as pallbearers. Captain James Shaver and four of the captains of the Shaver line, Captain William Jones and several masters and pilots of the Jones Towing Co., of Portland, all the officers of the Undine, as representatives of the Vancouver Transportation Co., Superintendent Harrison of that company, G. B. Blessing and Captain A. M. Gray, of this city, and half dozen engineers who had worked under Captain Larkins at different times, were among the many to pay their respects and assist in the last sad rites. The services at the grave were conducted by the same clergymen, in the presence of all who had attended the church services, and had accompanied the body to the cemetery. Floral offerings were grand and very numerous, showing respect and the goodwill of the donors for the popular captain.
